"Can History Become a Game?"

Learning History Through Play – Our Freedom Fighters

Idea: Two little learners play our freedom-fighters game, remember Gandhi Ji's and Sardar Patel's birthdays, explain their moves – and say "Interesting game hai, maza aaya!"
Language: Hindi voices + English subtitles · Style: warm, real, playful – not an ad
🎥 REAL real footage of the kids – their voices are never AI ✨ MAGNIFIC AI shot – product/illustration only, no kids' faces

Screenplay

#	Time	Source	Visual & audio	Text on screen

Magnific scenes (✨) – image-to-video from the product photo

Scene 1 – Opening

"Slow cinematic push-in on a wooden educational board game on a light wooden table, warm morning sunlight from a window, soft out-of-focus saffron, white and green bokeh in the background, shallow depth of field, calm and premium, vertical 9:16"

Scene 4 – Macro detail

"Extreme macro slow slide across wooden game pieces with illustrated portraits, visible wood grain, soft warm light, gentle focus pull, 9:16"

Scene 11 – Closing hero

"The complete wooden game set on a table, slow orbit, soft light sweep, a few marigold flowers and a small Indian flag in soft focus behind, warm and proud mood, 9:16"

Editor notes

- Only scenes 1, 4 (macro) and 11 are AI. Every speaking moment stays real footage.
- English subtitles on all Hindi; music low under voices; soft "tock" SFX on game moves.
- Small, clean text animations for names & dates; no heavy transitions.
- Scenes 8–9 are the most important – keep the kids' full explanations.
- Export 9:16 with clean audio and readable subtitles.
